The Bug Man.

The proverbial straw had broken the metaphorical camel's back. The patience of Charlotte Brantome, usually equal to the exigencies of the occasion, was exhausted. The twins, as a matter of course, were the culprits. They, however, with the complacency natural to boys of six or thereabouts, were indifferent to the tempest of despair which raged within their sister's breast. They had considerately refrained from adding deceit to the guilt, but had confessed, fully and unreservedly, to rifling the canary's nest, to tearing a jacket, and losing a hat down the well, to eating the strawberries that were saved for supper, and to catching their most faithful hen with a fish-hook. The fish-hook represented the straw; Charlotte the camel. She could have borne anything better than downright cruelty developed so early in one of her own blood. She never was a boy.

"And a man was here," said Popsey.

"A big man," volunteered Wopsey, the other twin. "And he asked us about everything, and we said our mother wasn't very well and our sister was an old maid school ma'am."

Charlotte winced. Where had he picked up that expression? And had it come to that?

"You must not talk to strange men about mother or me. What did he want?"

"He wanted to see you."

"Me?" Visions of tramps, of spying burglars, only they had nothing to "burgle," as Popsey had said one day, came into her mind. "How did he look?"

"He was beautiful." "He was dreadful," said the twins in duet.

Further questioning elicted these facts: He was young; he was old; he was short; he was tall; he wore spectacles; he wore a mustache, and was a bug-man. In the last and crowning fact the boys agreed.

Practice had made Miss Brantome a tolerable clairvoyant, so far as reading those two small minds was concerned. She jumped at the conclusion that some wandering naturalist chasing an elusive bug had chanced that way, and gave the subject no more attention. She had other things to think of than "bug-men" or any men, and the problem of how to provide a new hat for Wopsey and how to instil remorse into the hearts of her charges drove other thoughts away.

Sitting down on the low door-step of the house that had been home to her for six and twenty years, she tried to reason it out. The sun was yet high, the days were at their longest. Behind her flowed the tireless river; in front of her across the prairie, the hills were green. In the field of rye over the way gleamed a white wooden cross. Her grandfather, in whose veins flowed some of the blue blood of France, had bought a home in this western country when the remnant of an Indian tribe had still property to sell. The deed of sale provided for the preservation of their little burying-ground. The grain grew thick around, but the tiny village of the dead was never disturbed by spade or plough.

Old Pierre, however, had never prospered. Neither did Pierre the younger; and one night, when riding home, his horse shied in the moonlight and threw him with his head against a stone; he left no legacy but the home-stead and a debt to his wife and children. There was a gap of twenty years between Charlotte and the twin babies, and she really had a third infant on her hands, for her mother was nothing more useful than that after her husband's death She was not feeble-minded exactly, but painfully gentle—strange and unaccountable.

Charlotte shouldered her burdens with a brave heart. Her French accent—for Grandfather Brantome's blood had never filtered through Canada—brought her employment in a school town near by. The long walks back and forth kept the roses blooming in her cheeks, the boys were good—sometimes—and she, being busy, was happy. It requires leisure to be successfully miserable.

The burying-ground typified to her the "daily martyrdom of private life." And now, looking at it, her heart grew light. The new hat would cost but a trifle. Surely there were more strawberries ripe in the garden, the canary would lay more eggs, the jacket could be mended, and old Speckle had proved superior to the fish hook. But what could the boys be screaming about?

"The bug man! the bug-man!" they were shouting, trotting toward her with all their might on their sandy little feet. It was certainly strange. Why should a stranger call twice? That he should come once was not surprising—but twice?

"We showed him your photograph," said Popsey, "and he said you didn't look like an old maid a bit."

"And he said," went on the other terrible infant without a pause, "wasn't we proud to have such a sister; he wished he had, and then he had such a lot of bugs he puts them to sleep with medicine and sticks pins through 'em, and he has a gold watch and he let us wind it up, and we told him to come again some more and here he is?"

Charlotte was speechless, but in some way she found herself rising to her feet to greet a gentleman who was taking off his hat to her and bowing with a grace which even Grandfather Brantome would have approved.

"Miss Brantome, I believe."

She acquiesced in silence.

"I am gathering materials for an historical work, and was directed to you for information concerning the antiquities of this region. And I might as well say now that I have references and all that sort of thing."

"Then you are not—" She stopped; he smiled.

"No, I am not exactly a bug man, as these little fellows have called me, although I must plead guilty to a slight leaning in that direction. Yet just now I would joyfully part with the biggest bugs of my collection if in exchange I might examine your grandfather's papers."

He was so gracefully genial that one could no more be absurdly dignified with him than with the golden robin singing on the Indian cross.

"Will you walk in?"

"I will sit out here instead if you will permit me to do so."

So Popsey and Wopsey dragged a chair and then stood motionless and wonder-eyed listening to the talk of discovery and adventure. They did not understand it very well until the conversation turned to Indian lore. Indians and bears they could comprehend. Then the mother, attracted by a strange voice, drew near the door in her melancholy, wavering way.

"The postmaster's wife thought that La Salle was an Indian chief," Charlotte was saying, "and she had heard of Father Marquette, but supposed him the priest down at La Paz."

"I met a woman the other day who thought a herbarium was a bug," remarked Mr. Duncan. Then they laughed.

But everything comes to an end. The boys began a dumb show behind the stranger's back to indicate to their sister that they were perishing for hunger; so she let the conversation lag in order to end the call.

"Come to-morrow and see the papers if you like," she said. "It will be Saturday, and I shall be at home to answer questions."

He thanked her and withdrew jumping over the rail fence which skirted the field of rye, in order to get a nearer view of the cross, on which not one, but a dozen, golden robins were holding a vesper conclave. And the tea-kettle was soon singing in the Brantome kitchen a song as gay as that of the robins, and Charlotte was not her careful self as she picked the strawberries for tea.

"Half of 'em green," said the disgusted Wopsey. "'Spect she's thinking of the bug man."

* * * * * * *

It certainly was astonishing how much consultation the Brantome manuscripts needed. And, too, Mr. Duncan required so much assistance. It was "Miss Brantome, will you kindly read this list while I copy it?" or, "Miss Charlotte, really I can't make out whether this is an e or an i," all the while. Granfather Brantome would have begun to inquire as to marriage settlements and Scotch pedigrees had he been alive to see those chestnut locks, innocent of bangs, and that dark mustache in such dangerous proximity. It was the old story—two young heads bending over the same page. No word of love had passed. All was on a strictly business basis, the history of the missions of the Northwest the objective aim.

But at last there was no excuse for lingering any longer. The hills across the prairie were red and gold, the robbins had fled, and the grain around the little burying-ground had been cut and stowed away.

Charlotte was walking home as usual. Far away in the road two moving dots appeared, which developed into the twins as they came nearer. Tears were cutting briny furrows down their not very clean cheeks. Hysterical sobs alone came from their mouths as they tried to speak, but finally the sisterly intuition eliminated these words from the chaos:

"Mother has runned away! She said she would if we didn't stop pounding, and we didn't, and she has runned!"

That poor mother! She had made the same threat a hundred times before but had been pacified.

"Which way? Tell me quickly," thinking of the river, so tireless and so cruel.

"She runned up the railroad track."

No more words were needed. Back of the garden was the branch railway from La Paz. The evening train was nearly due. Leaving the twins to toddle after as well as they could in their exhausted state, she ran. Ran? She flew. The bright invalid shawl was a beacon. Mrs. Brantome sat upon the track idly playing with some yellow flowers. Charlotte knew her patient well.

"Mother," she said, "it is late and the boys are calling, and you must feed the chickens."

The mother shook her head. Persuasion was no persuader. Then Charlotte scolded. Alike useless. Then, as a last resort, she used a gentle force. A failure. Sit there and pull those yellow flowers to pieces—that the poor unbalanced one would do nothing else. In Heaven's name what was to be done? Those who have had experience know the streugth of the insane. The train whistled for the crossing a mile away, and just then (some guardian angel guided him) James Duncan Jumped the fence, a wet handkerchief in his hand.

Blessings upon the medicine which subdued the bugs! It subdued this poor woman in a moment and he had lifted her out of danger before the train rushed past. Then he explained. He had been copying the inscription on the Indian's tombstone as the boys went screaming by. He gathered from their incoherent words what the matter was. The chloroform idea was simply an inspiration.

"How can I repay you?" asked wet-eyed Charlotte, as the party, boys, mother and all, were walking back.

"By making over to me Pierre Brantome's manuscripts—and his granddaughter. I can never write the history without her."

"Well," softly, "in the cause of science—perhaps."

And this is how it came to pass that the boys marched up the church aisle before the robins came again, with Charlotte and the bug-man.

The Hero Was Slain.

One of the farmers who succeeded in backing his wagon into place at the City Hall market yesterday morning had several errands to do around the neighborhood, and he left his son of fourteen on the vehicle to make a sale of five or six bags of potatoes. The old man had scarcely disappeared when a bill distributor came along and threw into the wagon the first chapters of a sensational serial. The boy grabbed for the "fly" and began to devour the literature in chunks and hunks, and of the half-do zen people who came alomg and asked the price of his potatoes he answered only one, and him so absent-mindedly that no sale was made. In about half an hour the old man returned. He halted at the back end of the wagon and took in the situation, and then asked:

"George, what you got?"

"Story."

"What about?"

"Injuns."

"Do they kill anybody?"

"They are after a feller and I guess they git him."

"He's the hero I s'pose?"

"Yes."

"Don't sell any taters, does he?"

"No."

"I thought not, but I reckon I'll soon know the reason why!"

With that he leisurely climbed over the tail-board, reached for the boy and the shaking up that youth received will make him dream of earthquakes for many nights to come.

"You don't want any more of that," said the old man, as he finished business and dropped the "fly" overboard. "The Injuns not only overtook the hero but they slew him in the most fatal manner, and don't you forget it! Now you git up'n gallop and sell these 'taters!"—Detroit Free Press.

The fancy in boudoir furniture is to have the wall paper, window curtains, portiers and carpets to correspond in color, while the chairs, lounges and fauteuils are upholstered variously in plush of different but harmonizing colors, tinsel shot, moyenage brocades of several kinds and many fancy chairs of cane or bamboo, gilded or painted and cushioned with plush or jute velours, tapestry finely fringed in Louis XIV or Louis XV styles, and all sorts of fancy plush covered tables, stands, etageres and low bamboo five o'clock tea tables and sofa tables, not to speak of the Japaneese screens and cabinets and bookcases, small desks and other pretty objects and conveniences that mark the individuality of a woman of taste and refinement.

Hints to House Furnishers.

SPECIALTIES FOR SPRING.

Streets and stores are alive with lustres and splendors of spring.

The house cleaning craze is at its height, and the furnishing centres teem with novelties of the latest order.

The modern parlor resembles an illuminated mosaic; each article of furniture and bric-a-bric differing in color, form and combination from every other artistic confection or trifle the room contains.

Stylish and serviceable portiers, piano and table covers are made of rich wine or brown shades of Nonpareil yelveteen, with border bands of the broche variety, the pattern being outlined with gold or silver braid or tinsel cord.

An item of interest to the "Lords of Creation" occurs in the occupation by Max Stadler of his new sore, corner Grand Street and Broadway, New York, and the illustrated catalogue and price list of all classes of clothing furnished by this enterprising dealer, on receipt of name and address. Garments of perfect style are sold at figures which scarcely more than cover the cost of materials and manufacture. Such are the facilities vouchsafed at the great centers of supply.

Literary News.—The Saturday Evening Post, of Philadelphia, now completing its sixty-fourth year of continuous publication, has recently received a surprising impetus in circulation by original popular improvements, under the talented management one of the most successful newspaper men in the country. The management announce their cordial desire to renew intercourse with all old friends, and to obtain the approval of myriads of new ones, who will nturally wish to enroll themselves. In order to facilitate this purpose they will send a beautiful souvenir free to applicants who furnish their address to the publication office, 726 Sansom St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Diphtheria has been so prevalent that the best treatment should be known. The patient absolutely requires extraordinary nutrition and general stimulant to resist and overbalance the slow fever that consumes the strength and also to counteract the deadly growth of fatal fungus in the vital passages. Immediate use of Duff's Pure Malt Whiskey fills these grand essentials, and will produce wonderfully magical results when faithfully prescribed. No case of failure has ever been known. Protect the patient from exposure and harmful excitement, but stick tenaciously to the remedy until recovery is complete.

Every new subscriber to "Strawbridge & Clothier's Fashion Quarterly" gets one volume of Musical Bric-a-Bric, Instrumental selections; or, one volume of Musical Bric-a-Bric, Vocal selections. Pretty cover, clear type, full sheet music. The "Quarterly" is the cheapest ladies' magazine in the world. The Spring number contains 120 illustrated pages; colored plate of Paris Fashions: cut paper pattern Supplement; complete original Novelette, by Robert Grant; new Waltz by Sousa, leader of the Marine Band; etc. Cut this out, enclose 50 cents, mention your choice, instrumental or vocal, and send to Strawbridge & Clothier, Eighth and Market Streets, Philadelphia.

SIDNEY EARLE.

A Precocious Writer.

Asking the Commissioner of Pensions to Retain Her "Papa."

The personal mail of Commissioner of Pensions Black is very heavy, and frequently contains some curious communications. A few days ago the General received a letter from a little girl of fourteen years, whose father, a Republican, is President of the Board of Examining Surgeons in a Western town, and she was afraid he would be removed. She said her father was in the army, that he brought home with him after the war a disease from which he had not recovered, and which would ultimately prove fatal to him; that he was a good "papa," and she asked General Black not to discharge him. She inclosed a postal card addressed to herself, and said: "My papa does not know I am writing this letter. If he did he might not like it; so if you grant my request please make a X on the back of this postal card. Nobody but me will know what it means, but I shall know that my papa will not be discharged."

The letter received General Black's personal attention. "I have received your little letter," he said in reply, "and have read it with interest. I will file it carefully away, and when I come to take up for action the matter of the reorganization of the Board of Examining Surgeons at —— I will give it just as careful consideration as I would like to have given to a letter from my own little girl, written under the same circumstances. If your papa is a good man, a good surgeon and a faithful officer of the Government, I will try and keep him."

A VILLAGE FIRE.

(Correspondence of the Lewisburg Chronicle.)

DOWN EAST, June 2d, 1885.

Did you ever see a fire in a country town? If you have not, you have missed much that goes to make life memorable. Probably you have been to the circus, to see the animals, or, may be, you are an open and avowed sinner and went to see the show, and stayed to see the concert thereafter, and didn't care who knew it. But no man's experience can be counted complete till he has seen a New England village fire. He may have been to the circus, he may have gone to the theatre when he was in the city that time, he may have participated in Decoration day services, been at a Sunday school celebration when a thunder shower came up, or, even, as was once my high privilege, he may have seen a riot between two or three hundred Irish and Italian railroad natives. These things are all very well in their way, but lump them all up and they will not make a shadow to the hurrrah that surrounds a fire "down East."

The town was as quiet as a graveyard. It always is. The irregular street is fringed with elms, and the green window shutters on the white cottages set in the apple trees, looked as pretty as a picture. At Amasa Gray's house all was quiet and serene. Hannah, his wife, was in the garden planting onions. The two small children were making mud pies in the loam. Amasa, himself, was a mile away building a stone fence. Hannah had been in the garden sticking onions, in that graceful position one must necessarily assume when you 'stand up to it,' and she was facing the white-washed barn. Presently she rose up slowly, and thought she smelled something. It wasn't onions, though they were present. She looked around, and her heart leaped into her throat. Out of every crack and chink in the neat white painted kitchen, black smoke was pouring. She ran to the house just as a window burst out and the red flames swept up. Nobody will ever know how it happened.

Hannah screamed 'Fire.' The neighbors heard it and the yell became general. If there is anything that can put more vitality into a country town than the cry of fire I want to know it.

There was no mistake in location, the smoke, black and rank, curled up overhead. The first on the ground was Aunt Betsy Sawyer, of the general shape and build of an ordinary shock of cornfodder. Aunt Betsy was 'doing' some preparation in the kitchen when she heard the cry, and she rushed out with a huge iron spoon in her hand, and she did not lay it down until two hours later, when she allowed, as she sat down at home, that she was all 'done up.' One of the sights of the hour was that spoon being flourished around. Deacon Jas. Johnson had been reading the Weekly Clarion and Farmer's Friend on the back porch, with his iron bowed spectacles on his nose. He threw his paper down, upset the chair, and 'lit out' for the scene of action in his shirt sleeves. When he got there he tried to get in at the front door, and seizing the glistening brass knob tried to open it outward. He struggled and twisted and pulled but it wouldn't come. Finally he gave one mighty pull, and, as the knob came off, the door opened itself. It is currently reported by people who were there, and had personal knowledge of the fact, that Deacon James actually swore at the door. There was never anything done about it in the church, although it was talked over. The sisters often refered to it at the 'teas' as an evidence of the possible blackness of a man's heart though he does occupy shining places in the church. It was too well established for denial that Bro. Johnson did say, just as he gave the knob the last mighty yank that brought it off, and burst his vest down the back at the same time, 'dod gast it,' and those who heard it said that he said it as if he meant it. Miss Mehitable Ann Jones, the village dress maker, was in the very act of putting herself together when she heard the cry. She has never been known to appear en dishabille before, never; but she started to the fire with that wiggle-waggle run that nobody on earth has but an old maid. She had on her wrapper, but all her fixtures were back in her room, and she looked like a pillow slip with a lath inside. She had on odd slippers and red stockings, and carpet rag garters. This valuable piece of information is due to the fact that en route Miss Mehitable fell down. Arriving she did signal service by squealing 'Fire' at the top of her voice.

The storekeeper was counting eggs when he heard the yell of Fire. He dropped the two handsfull of eggs on the floor and, as he afterward graphically expressed it, 'let them and the store go to thunder' and tore down the street.

A countryman coming into town in a two horse wagon saw, from the end of the street, the crowd and the fire, and he larrupped his horses into a run to get there. They got frightened and ran through the crowd and over the hill at the other end of town, but just as they cleared the brow he took one look backward and was seen no more. The blacksmith stopped in the middle of a horseshoe nail and put for the field of action. Jones' dog, seeing him go by, took him for some sort of malefactor that should be bitten on general principles, and he took out a quarter section in the rear of Vulcan's unmentionables, but 'little he recked' and he sailed around the corner with the piece flapping like the tail board of an express wagon.

In less time than it takes to tell it the whole village was there, all except one old woman who was paralyzed and an old man laid up with inflamatory rheumatism.

And the fire itself! How a fire can eat into an old dried out house, in a dry season, when it gets a start once. It was crackling and waltzing around the roof like mad, while the crowd yelled and raced around it below. Brother Johnson, when he got the door open, ran in and brought out the coal scuttle and poker, depositing them on the other side of the street, and returned for an old time rocking chair. Bill Jones pulled a what-not up by the roots and brought it out and dashed it to smithereens in the middle of the road. The blacksmith had rushed up stairs and seized a cradle, brought it to the head of the steps, bearing it before him like a shield, and just then two men grabbed the loosely fastened stair carpet and brought carpet, man and cradle in a heap to the bottom, all at once. The half grown boys had removed the front steps, making it a good four feet from the ground to the floor, and when the bureau went out the drawers went in their several directions, and Hannah's 'things' went their way. Just then Amasa Gray himself showed up. He had been running a mile to get there, with his arms flailing in the air, and when he burst into the crowd he inquired, 'What's the matter?' I wonder whether he thought it was a clam bake or a donation party?

He didn't wait for an answer, although the storekeeper volunteered the gratuitous information that 'The house is afire,' but he dived into the cellar and grabbed what came first and brought it up. It proved to be a keg, half full of last year's sour kraut, undergoing the third and final necessary putrefaction. Dashing it on the board walk he went in again and brought up a crock of soap grease. Others followed and pegan pitching out canned fruit and milk crocks and the belongings of the underground part of the domestic economy of every household. Squire Calnoun, essaying to go down, was hit on the head with an empty flour barrel and knocked over. He was promptly hauled out from under the shower, and he remarked that, 'old and all as he was he could lick the man that done it.' In the rear, the old cat was removing her family from under the wood shed to the currant bushes, and she was trying her level best to take the last two in one mouthful. The boys had upset several necessary outbuildings, and had knocked off all the palings, and pulled the young plants up by the roots. It was a noble effort to save property. When the roof fell in there was a dismal howl from the crowd and the last act was over. The fire that last happened in the village occurred, by the town records, in 1790, when the Blue Hen tavern burned. and I will just venture to assert that it will be 1790 years to come before another house burns down if the traditional ounce of prevention can put it off. As a result of the high pressure of the day there were sundry direhappenings. Johnson took cold. Aunt Betsy Sawyer's "doings" turned to a crisp on the stove. While Mrs. Williams was at the fire with, as she expressed it, "every door in the house open," a flock of chickens took possess on and not only ate the heart out of a lot of custard pies on the kitchen table but went to roost on the piano. Miss Mehitabe was so ashamed of herself that when she went out the week following she put on an extra dab of powder and more things. She said when she heard of distress she was going if she wasn't dressed up. The preacher gave them a good round dose of the fire at the next prayer meeting, and warned the youthful sinners that, if they went to any more evening parties, they should remember Amasa Gray's fifty years to come, when there is an open question to be settled, as to the age of the deceased, some old man will say he knows the Governor was only sixty because he was but ten years old when Amasa Gray's house burned up. And now, if you have never seen a New England fire, you have at least read about one.

Catch a Weasel Asleep.

[Chicago Times.]

Two of the bidders for the Government envelope contract, on their way from Holyoke to Washington, were talking over the situation with much assumed candor. It was readily agreed that, as the bids had been registered, there could be no risk in comparing notes; so each promised to mark his bid on paper and pass it over. Both scratched away, the papers were exchanged, and both were blank! Each weasel counted on the somnolent condition of the other.

The Millheim Journal.

THURSDAY, JULY 2ND, 1885.

Published by R. A. BUMILLER.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND and cabinet are announced to be at the encampment of the National Soldiers' Reunion at Fairmount Park, Philadelphia, on the Fourth of July.

THE papers are full of commencement accounts of the many colleges throughout the state. Thousands of young people are graduating and ready to take a hold of the first paying position or job presenting itself. Time will only tell whether or not their education is of practical benefit to them.

GOVERNOR PATTISON has signed the marriage license act. The bill requires couples intending to be married to take out a license one month before. The law will go into effect about the first of October next and it is to be hoped that much of the crookedness and folly which exist in the marriage business will be straightened out by this law.

NEW YORK'S three most important offices, from a political standpoint, were filled on Saturday by President Cleveland in the appointment of the following men: Edward L. Hedden, to be Collector of Customs, in Mr. Robertson's place; H. S. Beattie, Surveyor of Customs and Silas W. Burt, Naval Officer. Cleveland made these selections after a very careful consideration, well knowing the peculiar political color of New York's Democracy.

Mr. Hedden is an experienced merchant and pure business man and has never been an active politician. He is approved by Irving Hall and as a man is not objectionable to Tammany Hall.

Mr. Beattie is also a County Democracy man and a warm friend of Secretary Whitney. He is a lawyer and at present Deputy County Clerk of New York.

Colonel Burt was the Naval Officer under Hayes, when Arthur took the chair. Burt received the cold shoulder and he turned and voted for Cleveland both for Governor and President. His appointment makes the second important office given to Independent Republicans.

To please both the county democracy and Tammany was almost an impossibility.

Tammany is hard to please and in this case as before is mad at Cleveland and everybody else.

GENERAL GRANT is slowly but surely nearing his end. The following statement of Dr. Douglas, his attending physician, fully explains the patient's condition:

"His life has been prolonged by the invigorating air here instead of the great heat of New York. The disease has progressed in the natural way. As I have said before, his disease is one of increasing debility. The General was likely to die at any time in New York, and had he remained there instead of coming he could in all human probability have expired before this. His present weakness is the natural result of the disease. He is each day less strong, and though the step from day to day is scarcely preceptible, the aggregate of fourteen days becomes noticeable. Two weeks ago Grant left the city, and if he was in New York to-day he could not be moved here. His strength to-day is unequal to such a journey. Now if you ask me when the end will probably be, I cannot tell. No one can tell. He grows weaker and weaker, and at last the point of exhaustion will be reached. That is all, and nobody can say when that shall be."

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES.—Franklin and Marshall College, Lancaster, Pa., is the oldest and leading institution of the Reformed church. The commmencement exercises began June the 14th with the baccalaureate sermon by Pres. T. G. Apple, D. D. The Board of Trustees conferred the honorary degree of Ph. D. upon Prof. D. M. Wolf and L. L. D. upon the Hon. John Cessna. The college received a generous donation of $10.000 from Charles A. Santee of Philadelphia. At the reunion of the Diagnothian Literary society, W. U. Hensel, a graduate member, occupied the chair. He was also appointed on the committee which has in charge the publication of a Centennial Memorial volume of the college.

Among those who responded to toasts at the alumni dinner and semi-centennial celebrations of the literary societies, were Hon. J. H. Wickersham L.L.D., a member of the Board, Hon. John Cessna L. L. D., Hon. John W. Killinger, Major A. C. Reinoehl, Mayor D. P. Rosenmiller and Rev. Kryder Evans.

The class day exercises, characterized by wit and humor, were exceedingly entertaining to a large audience on the college campus.

The graduating class numbering twenty-four were arrayed in gowns and caps, ten of whom delivered orations. S. C. Stover, of Farmers' Mills and Mr. Masataka Yamanaka, a Japanese student, were among the graduates. The Minister of the Japanese Government at Washington has engaged the latter as one of the Japanese legation, and he has already gone to his post. He is a sincere Christian.

The trustees are engaged in erecting an observatory, the principal instruments for which were manufactured in Europe at a great cost. For this purpose a lady of Frederick, Md., donated $10,000. Other contributions are being added.

The Hon. John Cessna L. L. D. is President of the Board of Trustees, a position occupied for many years by President Buckhannan. Prof. D. M. Wolf, Ph. D., Revs. L. K. and John M. Evans, Dr. C. S. Musser, Harvey Musser Esq., Prof's. Gobble, Henry Bitner and Wm. Hosterman, natives of this valley, and many others throughout the county, are graduates of Franklin and Marshall. Calvin M. Bower, Esq., is a member of the Board of Trustees. The college is being well endowed and equipped. It is thorough and progressive in its work.

Miscellaneous News.

The Mystery Solved.

POTTSVILLE, June 25.—The mystery surrounding the recent incendiary fires here seems on the point of solution. The police to-day arrested 'Tony' Reinhart, 'Skip' Mayer and 'Bull' Carlisle well-known local crooks. Evidence against two of them is so strong that it is expected they will make a clear breast of the indentity and the operations of the incendiary gang. They were all committed for trial.

Fourth of July Excursions.

For the benefit of those who would enjoy the great national holiday in visiting friends or making short excursions to attractive points, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will sell excursion tickets at greatly reduced rates, on the 3rd and 4th of July, good to return until the 6th between all stations on its lines, comprising the Pennsylvania, the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore, Baltimore and Potomac, Alexandria and Fredricksburg, Northern Central, West Jersey, and Camden and Atlantic railroads.

LAY THEM AWAY.—We mean the horrible, nauseous worm-seed compounds calied worm syrups and vermifuges; many of them as worthless as they are obnoxious. They have out-lived their usefulness. People do not want them since McDonald's Celebrated Worm Powders, so easy and pleasant to take, can be had from any dealer. Everyone who has tried them say they are the nicest and best vermifuges ever discovered. The children take them and never know a medicine is being administered. Any case of failure to cause expulsion where worms exist the money promptly refunded in every instance.

Silver Discovered Near Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, June 27.—The little town of Montour, on the line of the Pittsburg and Lake Erie Railroad, ten miles west of Pittsburg, is in a ferment of excitement over the discovery of what experts claim is genuine silver-bearing quartz. The quartz was found by Superintendent Kelly, of the Imperial Coke Company, on the property of the company. He had it essayed by Prof. Hugo Blank, a prominent chemist here, who states that it has $7.50 of silver to the ton. Of course it was only the surface croppings, and it is expected to be more valuable when it is mined. The lode is located three miles from Montour, in a ravine on a right angle from the river. Those who ought to know say the indications are that the strike is genuine.

—ONE dose of McDonald's Great Blood Purifier or Sarsaparillian Alterative is guaranteed to contain more alterative properties, more truly remedial power than three doses of any other known alterative or blood purifier. Many other blood remedies are good enough in their way, only that you are compelled to buy a gallon of medicine to get a pint of remedy; the manufacturers having sacrificed strength and usefulness to palatability and profit. McDonald's Blood Purifier is put up in seventy-five cent bottles containing as much as most dollar bottles of other makes. Dissatisfied purchasers can have their money refunded.

A Terrible Accident.

Josiah Fry Almost Cut in Twain by Coming in Contact with a buzz-Saw.

DAUPHIN, June 25.—A terrible accident happened at Bayard's stave mill, six miles from this place, about 2 p. m., Wednesday. Mr. Josiah Fry, a sawyer, was working at a buzz-saw when a part of the frame-work gave way, allowing the saw to swing forward, coming in contact with Mr. Fry's right shoulder and cutting diagonally through the body to the lower ribs on the left side. The cut was a terrible one, almost dividing the body. Death was instantaneous.

Mr. Fry was upwards of sixty years of age, and was respected by all, having a kind word for every one. He has been a resident of Clark's Valley for many years, and the whole community was shocked to hear of his sad death. The Messrs Bayard will have some difficulty in finding a man to take Mr. Fry's place.

IT WENT ROUND AMONG THE NEIGHBORS.—Mr. Levi Sahl, merchant and postmaster at Fostoria Pa., writes:

'Mr. J. A. McDonald, Reedsville, Pa.

DEAR SIR.—Some time ago I had a severe attack of chronic diarrhoea. Could obtain no relief. A friend gave me a part of a bottle of your Curtis' Carmelite Cordial, and a few doses entirely cured me. The balance of the bottle went around among the neighbors. Since then I have written to New York and Philadelphia for the medicine but could not procure it. I traced up the bottle we had and found it was purchased of Mr. Jacob Cowan, merchant in Aitoona, and from him obtained your address. Please forward me one dozen bottles by express at once, as I do not wish to be without it in my family and wish to sell it in my store.'

Single bottle Curtis' Carmelite Cordial guaranteed to cure any case cholera, dysentery, diarrhoea; cramps, pains, and all irritation of the bowels incident to change of climate, diet or water.

Neuralgia of the Face.

Capt. John Orr, Pearlington, Miss., has been a most intense sufferer from facial neuralgia for over twenty years. He has had seventeen operations performed on the nerves—that is, had them divided, cut off close to the bone from which they emerge. But this never did him any good; the most excruciating pain continued without the least interruption. He often wished for death to relieve him of the intolerable pain. The best physicians failed to relieve him. They finally advised him to consult Drs. Hartman & Miller, at the St. Charles Hotel, New Orleans, which he did. They prescribed PERUNA, and in less than a month was entirely relieved of the pain. Before consulting these doctors the least touch to any part of his face or nose would cause the most fearful pain, while now he can blow his nose and wipe his face without the least fear of pain. The captain is grateful beyond measure for this unexpected and unhoped for result.

Mrs. Elizabeth Kenner, 98 Laurel street, New Orleans, has been one of the greatest sufferers from Neuralgia of the face during the past year that we have ever heard of. From morning to night, and from night to morning, there was one constant, racking, tearing, burning pain, extending clear around her head and deep down through every muscle, tooth and bone in her face. No rest and no sleep. All physicians failed to relieve her, as well as all remedies. She was constantly in the most agonizing despair. She called on Dr. Hartman, who said the cause was chronic catarrh. He prescribed PERUNA for her and now every pain has left her. She feels like another person and can eat heartily and sleep soundly.

Mrs. C. J. Miles, Gallipolis, O, writes: "DR. S. B. HARTMAN & Co., Columbus, O. My affliction has been rheumatism, located in the right arm and shoulder, of more than two years' standing, and after trying a great many remedies without any relief, I commenced the use of PERUNA, which, after using three bottles, found a decided change for the better. I continued to use it and now feel entirely well."

Huldah Ward, Wellston, O., writes: "I have been afflicted for years with that dreaded disease, catarrh. I tried a great many different kinds of medicine, but to no effect. I commenced taking your PERUNA about nine months ago; have taken about ten bottles. It is doing me much good. By its continued use I hope to be entirely cured."

Dr. A. B. Lovejoy, Dadeville, Ala., writes: "I have a fine run on your PERUNA and MANALIN. Please send me a lot of books, "The Ills of Life."

—A misstep will often make a cripple for life. A bottle of Henry & Johnson's Arnica and Oil Liniment at hand, will not prevent the misstep, but used immediately it will save being a cripple.

The Old, Old Story.

BEDFORD, Pa., June 29.—Mrs. Mary Moyle, of Everett, yesterday noon attempted to light her kitchen fire with a can of kerosene, with the usual result. The oil caught fire, the can exploded, and fragments of glass and tin were scattered all over the room. Mrs. Moyle was ablaze with fire when she ran out of the house, but before the flames could be subdued she was horribly burned. She lingered in misery a few hours when death ended her sufferings.

Rupture

PROVIDENCE, R. I., 10 Dexter St.

DR. J. A. SHERMAN—Dear Friend: I am sorry, Doctor, you have left Boston. Persons continue to come to my house to inquire respecting you, while many others write me. Many who left me said they would surely seek your aid. Your success has been wonderful, and I am quite sure without a parallel. To my surprise my large Hernia appears to be perfectly healed. I did not expect it at the age of 79. After receiving your treatment I was relieved from suffering which was fast taking my life. I have no idea I should be living had you not taken my case in hand. I weigh now 170 pounds, over thirty pounds more than then. I think you must receive a great amount of happiness from the relief given and gratitude rendered.

You owe it to my son in Boston, who has known many of your patients before and after healing, that I applied to you. "Go," said he, "to Dr. Sherman; he is doing wonders." I had failed of help from a dozen others and doubted, but he would not let me rest till I went. I bless the day I did so. It is to me a mystery, Doctor, that you have so wonderfully out-distanced all in your profession.

I hope your life will long be spared to relieve sufferers, and thus bless the world. Most affectionately and gratefully yours, REV. JOHN ALDEN.

The Rev. John Alden's case was quite as bad as Mr. James Corlew's, in Dr. Sherman's illustrated book. Those who value immunity from strangulated rupture, the injury trusses inflict, and the comforts of physical soundness should lose no time in securing the benefits of Dr. Sherman's treatment and remedies. His book, containing likenesses of bad cases before and after cure, with evidence of his success and indorsements from distinguished physicians, clergymen, merchants, farmers, engineers and others, is expressed to those who send 10 cents. Dr. Sherman can be consulted daily at his office, 251 Broadway, New York, except Thursdays and Fridays, when he will be in Philadelphia office, 302 Walnut Street. NOTE.—No operation or detention from business. Patients from a distance can receive treatment and leave for home same day. 23 4t

Surface Indications

What a miner would very properly term "surface indications" of what is beneath, are the Pimples, Sties, Sore Eyes, Boils, and Cutaneous Eruptions with which people are annoyed in spring and early summer. The effete matter accumulated during the winter months, now makes its presence felt, through Nature's endeavors to expel it from the system. While it remains, it is a poison that festers in the blood and may develop into Scrofula. This condition causes derangement of the digestive and assimilatory organs, with a feeling of enervation, languor, and weariness—often lightly spoken of as "only spring fever." These are evidences that Nature is not able, unaided, to throw off the corrupt atoms which weaken the vital forces. To regain health, Nature must be aided by a thorough blood-purifying medicine; and nothing else is so effective as which is sufficiently powerful to expel from the system even the taint of Hereditary Scrofula.

The medical profession indorse AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, and many attestations of the cures effected by it come from all parts of the world. It is, in the language of the Hon. Francis Jewett, ex-State Senator of Massachusetts and ex-Mayor of Lowell, "the only preparation that does real, lasting good."

Low Priced Fertilizers.

Low priced fertilizers are not always the best. Baugh's $25.00 Phosphate is the best and the cheapest fertilizer, for the simple reason that it gives as good results as articles that cost very much more money. No farmer can make a mistake who buys Baugh's Animal Bone Super-Phosphate for $25 per ton, in new bags, free on board car or boat at Philadelphia. —A burglar attempted to enter the houses of Mr. Stephenson and Wm. Kerstetter on the road to Coburn on Wednesday night, the men being from home at the time. The attempt was unsuccessful, the fellow being scared off by several pistol shots fired by Mrs. Stephenson.

—The meat market on Main street, formerly owned by Jared Kreamer, of Miles township, was purchased by Mr. Daniel Hoy, of this place, and the new proprietor took charge of the stand on Monday. John Miller, the popular butcher, will continue to attend to the practical part of the business.

—The H. & L. boys had their first drill on Saturday evening, chosing the writer's property on Penn Street as their place of operation. We thought they did right well for the first time and a few more trials like it will put the boys in shape to fight any fire successfully. Of course, as usual, a fair crowd of spectators watched the proceedings.

ACCIDENT.—On Sunday morning, while Mrs. Rebecca Royer, residing at Madisonburg, walked around the house she had the misfortune to fall and break her arm near the wrist, and also received injuries about the face. The old lady had a paralytic stroke last winter from the effects of which she had not yet recovered, her one side being entirely lame.

—W. T. Mauck, our furniture dealer on Penn street, is doing a right lively business at present. Lately he received some very nice furniture, such as extension tables, lounges, chambersuits, stands, &c. and he seems to have little trouble to sell his stock. His selection is always tasty and his prices suited to the times. Call at his furniture store when in need of anything in his line.

—Notice is given to the public that Prof. Miles O. Noll, of Lewisburg, will take charge of the Aaronsburg Academy after harvest. A term of TEN weeks will begin on the 27th of July. All grades of scholars will be admitted on reasonable terms. Special attention will be given to those preparing for teaching. The patronage of all desiring the education of their sons and daughters is respectfully solicited.

—Solomon Etlinger, of Woodward, who several weeks ago made the rash attempt to take his life by shooting himself in the head, and who suffered from the injuries received ever since, was relieved of his earthly troubles by death on Monday morning at one o'clock. His aggrieved family surrounded the bed of the dying man and their feelings under the circumstances must have been sorrowful beyond description. The remains of the deceased were interred on Tuesday afternoon.

THE VACATION SEASON.—The season has arrived when country publishers and printers seek relief from the many trials and troubles incidental to their business in a week's vacation. The constant confinement arouses in the minds of all hands in the office a natural desire to have a "week off" for recuperation and the JOURNAL will have its customery rest next week. We ask the kind indulgence of our readers during our short recess. The office will be open however to receive any orders for work or payments of bills.

—One hundred Ladies' Jerseys on exhibition at Kauffman's. All styles and prices.

—Prof. C. L. Gramley, the teacher of one of Rebersburg's select schools, called on the JOURNAL on Thursday and reports good progress in his school. Considering the professor's well-known capabilities, this report is quite creditable.

—In no other medical preparation have the result of the most intelligent study and scientific inquiry been so steadily and progressively utilized as in Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It leads the list as a truly scientific preparation for all blood diseases.

—B. O. Deininger, the Journal store man, has returned from his week's trip and at the same time he received a new lot of specialities, which are on exhibition at his store on Penn street. For something novel and rare he takes the lead and his prices are lower than ever. Call and see.

—The new railroad was finished on Saturday, but for the sake of making the work of driving the last spike a more ceremonious proceeding that duty was deferred until to-day. It need not require more than a day to inspect the road and then it can be opened to the traveling public.—Daily News, (Monday.)

—Miss Sadie Adams, whose accident at Lewisburg we mentioned in a former issue, is still suffering greatly from her burns and improving very slowly. Most of her time she must be kept under the influence of morphia and is very weak as she takes but little nourishment. We sincerely hope she will have a speedy recovery.

NOTICE.—Having been appointed agent by the Middletown Tube & Iron Company of Middletown, Pa., for the sale of their Iron Pipes, &c, all persons needing anything in this line will save money by calling on me.

W. H. BARTHOLOMEW,
20-3m Spring Mills, Pa.

—No injurious effects can follow the use of Ayer's Ague Cure, in the treatment of malaria diseases. It contains, besides a specific and unfailing antidote for miasmatic poison other remedial agents which unite to expel the poisonous humors, purify the system, and leave it in a healthy and reinvigorated condition.

STRAY MARE. — The undersigned wishes to give notice that on the 26th of June a dun mare, about 10 years old, blind in the right eye, with black stripe on back and weighing about 1100 pounds came to his place, two and a half miles west of Millheim.

The owner is requested to take her away. C. W. HUBLER.

—While W. L. Bright, of Main street, took a drove of cows to Coburn on Thursday, for shipment, a vicious cow became enraged at little Harry Derr, a son of Wm. Derr, who had been employed to help driving. The mad animal knocked the boy to the ground, running over him several times, and but for the timely assistance of Mr. Bright and others, would have killed the boy. He was considerably bruised, but escaped without serious injury.

—PENN ROLLER MILLS at Farmers' Mills is now in complete running order and has already established its reputation for making the best, sweetest and richest flour in the market.

An essential of harmony in the house hold is good, sweet, white bread. The wife is powerless to accomplish this result unless she has good pure flour, with which to make bread. Try it and have peace.

—MUSICAL COLLEGE.—The 28th Session of six weeks, opens Monday evening, July 27, for the study and Training of Young Ladies in Vocal and Instrumental Music. For circulars, address

F. C. MOYER, Director,
Freeburgh, Pa.

STRIKE, STRIKE, STRIKE.—In order to raise a balance wanting in the Town Clock fund, the Town Clock Committee have decided to hold an ice cream festival in the afternoon and evening of the Fourth of July, in the Town Hall of Millheim. All are concerned in this enterprise and a cordial invitation is extended to all to assist in contributing the necessary balance.

By order of the Town Clock Com.

—The undersigned wishes to inform the citizens of this community that he expects to teach a fall term of school in the Grammar room on Penn street, and respectfully solicits the public patronage. Due attention given to advanced scholars and terms reasonable.

M. I. JAMISON.

ACCIDENT.—Seymour Winkelblech, a son of Adam Winkelblech, of Haines township, met with a distressing accident, while hauling lumber last Friday. The saddle horse, which he was riding, happened to fall, throwing the young man under the tongue, with the full weight of the horse on one of his legs, fracturing the bone right above the ankle. The broken limb was set by the attending physician and he is doing right well.

—In honor of the coming great national holiday—the Fourth of July—Mr. Frain, of the First National Hotel procured a 100 pound sea turtle and will serve the following bill of fare during the week: Turtle Soup, Clam Soup, Chicken Corn Soup, Watermelons, Tomatoes, Cucumbers, Beans, Peas, Cabbage. Mr. Frain, besides being a pushing and experienced hotelist, is an old and patriotic soldier and never allows the day of independence to slip around unobserved. For particulars of his proposed celebration on the Fourth see in another column.

—The finest line of Swiss and all kinds of Embroideries ever seen in Millheim, at D. S. Kauffman & Co's.

—On Monday night, June 22nd, the hotel at Lemont, this county, was totally destroyed by fire. The landlord, Isaac Armstrong, and his family barely escaped with their lives by jumping out of the windows. All the furniture was burned, besides $526 in bills and currency belonging to Mrs. Armstrong. A gold watch and all the clothing of one of the boarders was consumed by the flames. The origin of the fire is not known. There was insurance on the house and furniture.

—Mr. Daniel Shook, residing in Seville, Madison Co., Ohio, in a recent letter to this office, writes as follows about crops and business: We are having splendid growing weather here at present. Wheat is pretty good in this section. I do not think it will be ready to harvest before the 10th of July. Grass is simply tremendous. Plenty of fields will yield from two to two and a half tons to the acre. Corn is not very large, but the stand is pretty good and if the season is favorable will make a good crop. Times are pretty dull and our business men are complaining a good deal in regard to the dullness of trade.

—The excursion train leaving Lemont for Lewisburg in the morning of the Fourth will leave Lewisburg on its return at 10 o'clock, at night, instead of 4 in the afternoon as announced last week. This makes it somewhat unhandy for folks who live at some distance from Coburn, as they will hardly reach home before Sunday morning. Many had intended to go to Lewisburg next Saturday, but this new arrangement will keep most of our people home. The fare for the round trip at will be the regular excursion rate, $1.40.

GRAND FOURTH OF JULY AT MILLHEIM.—S. T. Frain, proprietor of the First National Hotel, wishes to inform the public of this town and neighboring country that the national holiday will be observed at Millheim by an attractive programme. A brass band will furnish music throughout the day. Glass ball shooting and a grand parade will take place during the latter part of the afternoon. An address will be delivered in the evening by an able orator, after which a grand display of fire works will be exhibited and two brass bands will be in attendance. Everybody is cordially invited to come to town and take an active part in the festivities of the day.

FESTIVAL.—The undersigned would respectfully inform the public that they will hold a festival in the town hall at Millheim on Friday and Saturday, July 24th and 25th, at which ICE CREAM, CAKES & LEMONADE will be served in the best manner. The proceeds are to go for the benefit of the unfinished Ev. church and they extend a cordial invitation to all to attend and patronize the festival.

EV. LADIES' MITE SOCIETY.

—Deininger's Ready Reference Tax Receipt Book is growing in public favor. Customers from a distance are beginning to call for it. It is an admitted necessity for every tax-payer who does his business in a practical manner. It it arranged to last for ten years and sells at the low price of 40 cents. Call and see it at the JOURNAL Store. tf

Ich bin letz—es is ja Aaronsburg. Meister Drucker, ich will dir nochmal bisel schreiwa. Mer hen widder en Legschen g'hat am Samstag a Woch for en Reservoir oder ken. Hen halt die Persimious g'riegt. Sie hen die Monkeys g'hat fer sie runner beisa. Well die Townkillers hen uns gebotta. Sie hen der alt Knownothing Schtile g'numma. Sie sin am Freitag Abed naus g'rennt, wie es dunkel is worra, von Haus zu Haus, un hen die Weibsleut verplaudert, das sie dergega schaffe Now es hat en alte Wittfrau g'sagt, das wann mer der Reservoir baue den, dehte sie Enterprise verlasse. Mer hen Lots so. Awer sie hen sie so meane Liege weis g'macht. Sie hen g'sagt das wenn mer en Reservoir hetta dann dehte die Bublen das keh Dawdy hetta in der Reservoir g'schmissa un versoffa were. Now sell is just so dinn as noch meh von ihre Arguments. Mer hen just aw so Bublen g'hat in dem Enterprise, das ich wehs, un der Gut Man hat sie hehm g'holt. Ich denk wann en Reservoir da g'west wer, dann het er es net hehm g'numma. Well wann die Reservoir gut sin for die Bublen versauffe, dann wer's gut wann ehner da g'west wer schon for die letzte hundred Jahr. Na hets net so viel von dene Townkillers da. Now Meister Drucker, un all das des sehna, es is net des frisch Wasser, das sie sich so wehra—es is der Dahler das sie so petzt. Now hab ich en Plan fer ihre Dahler. Es is en Mann in Milwaukee der hat en Trade Dahler g'schluckt, un er hat noch g'lebt for paar Dag zurick. Now wann seller Miser net doht geht, dann hen unser Misers all en Bank fer ihre Dahler nei duh. Sell is about so negscht das sie Americanised were. ## SMITH TOWN.

Mr. and Mrs H. E. Duck left for Lock Haven on Friday to visit relatives.

Mr. E. Bressler, of Rebersburg, was visiting in our hamlet.

J. H. Frank found a rye stalk containing sixty heads, from one grain. W. C. Duck beats the record with one that has 64 heads.

Mrs. John Bright, of Aaronsburg, is staying with her sister, Mrs. Shartzer, to do her house work, which that lady is unable to do on account of sickness.

Some of our farmers contemplate cutting their grain the latter part of this week.

D. S. Kauffman, one of Millheim's merchants, accompanied by a friend, were the guests of Miss Lizzie Keen.

W. F. Smith, while working in his field, found a den of foxes. The following evening he enrolled a large crowd and led them with torch lights and other utensils to the place to dig them out. But after having excavated a good sized cellar they gave it up for a bad job and returned home without Mr. Fox. Not sly enough for the creatures.

Rumor speaks of a grand Harvest Home picnic at this place.

Henry Keen was after some stray sheep the other day. He also reports that his fields are covered with millions of grasshoppers

E. E. Bressler successfully transferred his colony of bees into his improved frame hive. The work was witnessed by a crowd of curious spectators who were afterward invited to a liberal honey supper.

A number of our folks were to Aaronsburg last Saturday evening to attend the festival. JUMBO.

COBURN.

The monkey with the organ grinder have again made their appearance.

Aaronburg is well represented at this place.

Fred. Kurtz, of Centre Hall, bought a car load of wheat (nine hundred bushel) from Harter and Mensch on Friday.

Geo. D. Croll, of Ashley, Pa., purchased three lots from Evert and Bower on Thursday for $550, and expects to put three buildings on these lots this summer yet.

Samuel Evert, Jacob Moyer, Wm. Kerstetter and a few others went away on a fishing excursion on Thursday.

Our friend, John Rotes, is selling the best pills in the market. Buy from him. Z.

Andrew Stover's barn received a coat of paint.

Our farmers are busy haying.

Some of our ladies had a picnic at Fowler's recently. A beneficial trip to Reuby.

Miss Guise's school closed on Friday.

Dady Stoneb reaker enjoyed the soup of a 19½ pound turtle on Sunday.

One of our depot men came near being shipped one day last week. Some of the ladies had him in the box already but could not get the lid on. Look out, Billy.

Rev. Peters preached a good sermon to an interested audience on Sunday evening. ***

Spring Mills.

John Runkle, the enterprising merchant from Middleburg, Pa., was here on a visit to his parents for a few days this week.

M. B. Duck, Esq., has returned from a visit to Kansas. He brings unfavorable reports concerning the crops in the West.

Wm. M. Allison's new brick house is under roof and when finished will be an ornament to this place.

James B. Crawford has gone to Bellefonte where he intends to act in the capacity of a clerk in the store of the Bellefonte Nail Works.

Many of our citizens have been to Farmers' Mills to see Maj. Fisher's new Roller Mill operate. All seem to surprised at the immense machinery in motion and all have but one verdict—"it must make good flour." ***

MADISONBURG.

Levi Fullmer came home from Bellefonte to help the farmers to make hay and harvest.

Our citizens came together one day last week at the Union Cemetery for the purpose of repairing the fence and giving the grounds a general cleaning. The work was indeed commendable and greatly improves the appearance of our burial grounds. The old stable in the yard was sold to L. B. Stover.

Samuel B Shafer and Dr. Lee have painted their yard fences.

J. J. Ocker has his new stable ready. The carpenters completed their work on Monday.

J. L. Roush returned home from Lancaster on Saturday.

The Sunday schools had a real nice time on Saturday at the Penns caves. Forty-seven spring wagons and buggies left town. Two hundred and some thirty members of the schools were present on the Picnic ground.

One of farmer John Shafer's colts hung itself by its mothers halter chain. STILL.

GOOD FOR MALARIA.—E. James, Thompsontown, Pa., writes:

HALL'S Vegetable Sicilian HAIR RENEWER.

The great popularity of this preparation, after its test of many years, should be an assurance, even to the most skeptical, that it is really meritorious. Those who have used HALL'S HAIR RENEWER know that it does all that is claimed.

It causes new growth of hair on bald heads—provided the hair follicles are not dead, which is seldom the case; restores natural color to gray or faded hair; preserves the scalp healthful and clear of dandruff; prevents the hair falling off or changing color; keeps it soft, pliant, lustrous, and causes it to grow long and thick.

HALL'S HAIR RENEWER produces its effects by the healthful influence of its vegetable ingredients, which invigorate and rejuvenate. It is not a dye, and is a delightful article for toilet use. Containing no alcohol, it does not evaporate quickly and dry up the natural oil, leaving the hair harsh and brittle, as do other preparations.

Buckingham's Dye FOR THE WHISKERS

Colors them brown or black, as desired, and is the best dye, because it is harmless; produces a permanent natural color; and, being a single preparation, is more convenient of application than any other.

A Sly Old Rat.

[Providence Journal]

Two or three mornings ago one of our citizens missed five of his young chickens. Lifting a board near the abode of the chickens he scared a large rat away, and found the missing chickens,dead and partially eaten. He found, also, a nest of thirteen active, healthy little rats, only a day or two old. He took them away,determined that they should not grow up to kill his chickens. He disposed of four of them by feeding them to the cat, and saved the rest for some purpose, he did not know for what. He happened to be speaking of the matter to a friend, when the latter suggested that he put the little rats into a box and put them into a rat trap where the old rat would find them, and if the trap were nicely baited he could capture the old rat, and thus destroy the family. He thought that a good idea and tried it. The next morning he found the trap sprung and the old rat therein. He rushed to the trap, satisfied with the result of his experiment. The old rat saw him coming, and, putting forth extra effort, succeeded in escaping from the trap. Then he looked for the little ones, thinking he would set the trap again in the same way, when he discovered that the old rat had carefully removed the little ones to a place of safety before running any risk itself, and now had gone to join them.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING is pleasant ao the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle.

What He Used.

"You say that you was forcibly ejected?"

"No, sir; I don't say nothing of the kind."

"Didn't I understand you to say that he removed you with violence?"

"I don't know what you understood, but I didn't say that."

"I inferred from what you told me that he used force to compel your exit."

"I don't see how you got that into your head, for I didn't say nothing of the kind."

"You didn't go out of your own account?"

"Not by a tarnal sight."

"Then how did you get out?"

"Why, gosh it all, he kicked me out."

"Well, I want to know if he didn't use violence."

"No, I'll be shrunk if he did. He used his foot."

No Third of Two with Him.

A story is told of a farmer in Schley who rented some land last year to a colored man for a third of the crop. When the drought came on his corn and cotton were affected by it. He gathered two bales of cotton and two wagon loads of corn. The latter he penned up for his own use and the cotton was sold. When the landlord called for his share he was told there was none for him. He was thunderstruck and asked:

"Didn't I rent you my land for a third of the crop?"

"Yes, boss," said the darkey, "but you see, dar was no third. Dar was only two bales of cotton and two loads of corn; all mine, and nuffin' for you by the contract."

And the landlord could not make Cuffee believe any other way. He left the premises, saying:

"No d—n rascal can make me say dat two am three, nairy time."

Lord & Taylor's carpets and upholsteries have long been a household word with housekeepers at all points of the compass. The variety, beauty, excellent quality and cheapness of the Mosquettes, Wiltons, body Brussels, Aminster, Ingrain and tapestry carpets need no reccommendation to our readers.

DOWNS' ELIXIR.
N. H. DOWNS'
Vegetable Balsamic
ELIXIR
For the cure of Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Croup, Asthma, Pleurisy, Hoarseness, Influenza, Spitting Blood, Bronchitis, and all diseases of the Throat, Chest, and Lungs. In all cases where this Elixir is used its efficacy is at once manifested, convincing the most incredulous that is not incurable, if properly attended to.—At its commencement it is but a slight irritation of the membrane which covers the Lungs; then an inflamation, when the cough is rather dry, local fever, and the pulse more frequent, the cheeks flushed and chills more common. This Elixir in curing the above complaints, operates so as to remove all morbid irritations and inflamation from the lungs to the surface, and finally expel them from the system. It facilitates expectoration.
CONSUMPTION
It heals the ulcerated surfaces and relieves the cough and makes the breathing easy. It supports the strength and at the same time reduces the fever. It is free from strong opiate and astringent articles, which are of so drying a nature as to be in great danger of destroying the patient; whereas this medicine never dries or stops the cough, but, by removing the cause, consequently, when the cough is cured the patient is well. Send address for pamphlet giving full directions, free.
Price 35 cts., 50 cts., and $1.00 per bottle.
SOLD EVERYWHERE.

Improved Western Washer
PRICE. No. 1 for family of 6..... $8
No. 2 for large family..... 9
No. 3 for Hotel and Laundry,.... 10
Over 20,000 in use.

Thousands of ladies are using it, and they speak of it in the highest terms, saying that they would rather dispense with any other household article, than this excellent Washer. No well-regulated family will be without it, as it saves the clothes, saves labor, saves time, saves fuel, saves soap, and makes washday no longer a dread, but rather a pleasant recreation, as much as such is possible.
